

Come to an
Easter concert

Please come to a special Easter concert in St Mary's Adderbury on Saturday, April 1st. The concert is led by Laurence Cummins of the Royal Academy of Music and Director of the London Handel Festival. As Peter and Christine Job are arranging this concert, they have been able to arrange a 25% discount on the £12 tickets for a fellow choir member and guest. You just need to identify your choir on entry.

The concert is in similar format to the 2014 Christmas concert to which some choir members came. It starts at 7.30 and ends at 9.30 approx, after an interval. The idea is to trace Christ's path to crucifixion and resurrection, as reflected in short musical settings of biblical and related texts by leading composers down the ages. These texts will be read by an actor before the music is sung and translated from the Latin where necessary.

The music will be interspersed with short works by famous poets writing on life after death. Composers include Bruckner, Bach, Faure, Gesualdo, Byrd, Ceasar-Franck, Schutz, Tchaikovsky and Schubert. Donne and Shakespeare are among the poets
